The High Road School at Denton Elementary is a contracted special education classroom within Denton Elementary School dedicated to kindergartners through fifth graders who face a variety of emotional disabilities. We have the unique opportunity to deliver a highly individualized, multisensory academic program that is based on a thorough assessment of each student's needs and strengths. And because this program is a collaborative effort with the Caroline County Public School System, we stay focused on the primary objective of accelerating student performance to a level necessary to reach achievement standards aligned with the Maryland State Curriculum.

The High Road School at Denton allows students to share the public school's curriculum, materials, equipment, and amenities, yet our targeted research-based interventions have been customized to advance the reading, writing, and math skills of challenged students, along with their ability to better understand and master content. Ultimately, we are committed to building confidence and competence in every one of our students, so we provide them with consistent and structured instruction in deficit areas and we teach them how to become independent learners in the general education setting. Most importantly, we never — never — give up on a child. At High Road School, our students' success is our steadfast mission.
